

2002/G016/WO

Abstract

- 5 The present invention relates to moldings encompassing polyacetals, where the molding has a microcellular structure. The moldings have excellent mechanical properties. Furthermore, the moldings have very little tendency toward stress cracking. Processes for production of inventive moldings are also disclosed.